

Put your best sign forward.

Well-designed signage is a good investment, promotes business and economic development, attracts foot and vehicular traffic, and can enhance the appearance of a business, downtown, and the Downtown Lowell Historic District. Sign grants are now available through the Lowell Historic Board to assist small businesses with the cost of signage production and installation.

Who's eligible? Small businesses located within the Downtown Lowell Historic District. Grants can be used to fabricate signage for new or existing businesses or to replace signage that is in violation, nonconforming, or unapproved.

How much is available? A $1,000 maximum per business is available to help defray the cost of design, fabrication, and installation.

How do I get the money? An application available from the Historic Board needs to be completed first. The design has to be reviewed and approved by the Historic Board and conform with the District's design standards and City Sign Code. Grants are reimbursable after the signage has been installed and inspected.

Where do I get more information? Contact the Historic Board at (978) 674-1443 or at sstowell@lowelma.gov. They can provide you with applications and guidelines as well as suggestions and design ideas for signage.

Remember, when you put your best sign forward, it's not just good for downtown and the Historic District, it's good for business!
